Somerset House Programme

CUTE

25 January – 14 April 2024

Embankment Galleries, £18.50 (concessions, child and family tickets also available), half-price tickets for 25s and under on select Tuesdays

Somerset House's 2024 programme opens with CUTE, a landmark exhibition exploring the irresistible force of cuteness in contemporary culture. From emojis to internet memes, video games to plushie toys, food to loveable robotic design, cuteness has taken over our world.

CUTE brings together contemporary works from over 50 artists and contributors, including new artist commissions, presented alongside cultural phenomena from music, fashion and toys, to video games and social media. The exhibition examines the world's embrace of cute culture and how it has become such an influential measure of our times.

Presented in partnership with Sanrio, the exhibition will also celebrate the 50th anniversary of one of the world's most iconic and ubiquitous figures, Hello Kitty, featuring a dedicated plushie space, immersive disco and display of Hello Kitty products throughout the decades, including rare and unique items from private collectors and the official Sanrio archives.

Contributing artists include Mark Leckey, Sean-Kierre Lyons, AYA TAKANO, Mike Kelley, Karen Kilimnik, Nayland Blake, Cosima von Bonin, Hannah Diamond, Ed Fornieles, Juliana Huxtable, Rachel Maclean, Julien Ceccaldi, Paige K. B., Isaac Lythgoe, Alake Shilling, Wong Ping, Liv Preston, Ram Han, Maggie Lee, Bunny Rogers, Flannery Silva, CFGNY, Andy Holden, plus Somerset House Studios artists Chris Zhongtian Yuan, Sin Wai Kin and Sian Fan.

CUTE is curated by Claire Catterall, Senior Curator at Somerset House.

Zheng Bo: Bamboo as Method

22 February – 28 April 2024

Edmond J. Safra Fountain Court, Free

This spring, Somerset House's spectacular courtyard will be transformed into a bamboo grove by Hong Kong-based eco-queer artist Zheng Bo. Using over 300 locally sourced bamboos, the garden creates a place for contemplation and serves as a reminder of the restorative qualities of nature within the urban landscape of Somerset House and central London. Zheng's large-scale, participatory installation will be the newest addition to the annual Somerset House courtyard commission series which features international, contemporary artists who exemplify innovative thinking across sustainability and ecology.

In harmony with the neo-classical architecture surrounding the courtyard, Zheng Bo invites visitors to temporarily disconnect from their fast-paced, hyper-connected culture by immersing themselves in the biosphere that surrounds them and by taking up the activity of drawing, proven to promote mindfulness. Participants are encouraged to select bamboo leaves from a variety of species and to spend time sketching the unique characteristics of each shoot. When completed, participants' drawings are composted into the soil to fertilise the garden – completing a cycle of creativity and ecology. Zheng Bo's commission, as with their overall practice, is aimed at breaking down the boundaries between culture and nature, asking what we can learn from plants when we slow down and take the time to listen.

Alongside the installation, Somerset House will present a public event around Earth Day in April.

Now Play This

Liminal: Playing between worlds

6 - 14 April 2024

New Wing, Tickets on sale in February

Now Play This, the UK's leading experimental games festival, returns to Somerset House this spring showcasing the very latest in independent and innovative game design from across the globe. Celebrating its tenth anniversary, the festival offers engaging interaction and play for all ages to enjoy, fusing art and games under a new themed edition, Liminal: Playing between worlds. Contributors include Today I Die by Daniel Benmergui, where players pull apart and reconstruct a poem changing its narrative meaning piece by piece; Orchids to Dusk by Pol Clarissou, a game where the player is an astronaut stranded on an alien planet, with only a few minutes left to live, and Oneroom-Babel by Sanghee Lee, a dreamlike experimental VR experience in which users explore studio apartments located in the deep-sea filled with sentences written by the artist and extracted from interviews with young people who live in a 'Oneroom'.

As part of the city-wide London Games Festival, this year's Now Play This features games that get players to think of the way they perceive the spaces around them, and about the way people relate to one another. Encouraging self-reflection, the interactive festival explores the transitory, borderless spaces between artist's imaginations and audiences' inner worlds.

Alongside games, installations, activities and workshops, there is an accompanying programme of live events.

Now Play This is supported by the London Games Festival, Arts Council England and Goethe-Institut.

The Lore of LOVERBOY

8 June - 1 September 2024

Terrace Rooms, Pay What You Can

Somerset House presents the first exhibition on international fashion powerhouse Charles Jeffrey LOVERBOY, which celebrates 10 years of club to catwalk in 2024. One of Somerset House Studios' original residents - whose studio is still based within Somerset House's community of artists, makers and thinkers - LOVERBOY has been lauded for radically ripping up the fashion rulebook, loved by the likes of Harry Styles and Tilda Swinton, and for transcending disciplinary boundaries across art, design and music.

From the first rush of inspiration to the skill and craftsmanship of the atelier, culminating with the spectacle of a fashion show, the exhibition will offer a behind-the-scenes look into building a fashion business from scratch, focusing on the artistry that lies behind every process. Through a series of sensorially-led spaces rendered in LOVERBOY's signature ludic style, archival artefacts and newly commissioned works will be brought together in a maximalist, immersive show to provide an accessible and engaging insight into creative production and industry.

Black Queer Legacies

11 October 2024 - 19 January 2025

Terrace Rooms and Courtyard Rooms, Pay What You Can

This autumn, Somerset House presents a rare chance to dive deep into the largest cultural and historical archive of Black LGBTQ+ people in Britain in brand new exhibition rukus! Black Queer Legacies. The exhibition presents items from the award-winning rukus! archive, which relates to Black LGBTQ+ cultural and political history, as well as works and commissions from contemporary Black LGBTQ+ artists.

Curated by artist and filmmaker Topher Campbell, the exhibition explores Black Queer creativity, activism and community, spotlighting the work of UK Black Queer pioneers from the 1970's until the present day.

As well as showcasing public and intimate materials from the historical activism, artistic events and private lives of the Black British LGBTQ+ Diaspora, the exhibition will highlight contemporary artistic responses to the archival material, celebrating the work that created greater visibility for Black LGBTQ+ in a hostile environment and spotlighting Black LGBTQ+ culture today.

Topher Campbell and photographer Ajamu X founded the archive in 2005, borne out of a passion to tell the story of Black Queer creativity, activism, and community. The exhibition opening coincides with 1-54 Contemporary African Art Fair.

Somerset House Summer Series with American Express

11 - 21 July 2024

Edmond J. Safra Fountain Court, Line-up announcement and tickets on sale in March

Somerset House Summer Series with American Express

returns in July 2024 with eleven nights of unmissable gigs in the intimate and immersive setting of Somerset House's spectacular courtyard. A staple summer experience, the series presents a trailblazing line-up of breakthrough music artists and established acts from across the globe.

Skate at Somerset House

13 November 2024 – 12 January 2025

Edmond J. Safra Court, Special events announcement and tickets on sale in September

A beloved staple of London's winter season, Somerset House's spectacular courtyard will be transformed into a glorious festive destination once again in November 2024, welcoming visitors for an unparalleled skating experience in the heart of the capital.

A host of experiences for all ages will be available to enjoy on and off the ice including the ever-popular daytime skating lessons with Skate

School. All sessions on the ice are wheelchair accessible, with exclusive wheelchair sessions and chilled out sessions for those who need them available throughout the season.

Morgan Stanley Lates at Somerset House with The Courtauld

Site-wide, Dates to be announced

Morgan Stanley Lates return in 2024 with a new series of evening events celebrating the best of Somerset House's cultural programme.

Working collaboratively with The Courtauld and taking place in spring, summer and autumn, the events will be themed around the current season's exhibitions and installations.

Doors around the spectacular courtyard will be thrown open for after-hours access, exclusive experiences and activities hosted by artists and curators, as well as drinks, food and music.

Many activities will be free of charge to everyone, and those aged 25 and under will also receive free entry to some Somerset House and The Courtauld exhibitions.

Somerset House Studios Programme

Heartbreak and Magic by Libby Heaney

9 – 18 February 2024

G31, £6

Heartbreak and Magic is a new virtual reality artwork and physical installation by the award-winning Somerset House Studios artist and quantum physicist Dr. Libby Heaney.

Drawing on the artist's own experience with personal grief and sudden loss, the artwork explores the non-binary and non-local qualities of quantum physics to offer alternative perspectives on how we think and feel about the self and existence.

Heartbreak and Magic is commissioned by VIVE Arts and presented in partnership with Somerset House.

Black Business Residency

Black Business Residency

Sponsored by Morgan Stanley

Graduation Showcase: 4 June, Free

Developed in partnership with DOES and sponsored by Morgan Stanley, the Black Business Residency (formerly known as the Black Business Incubator) at Somerset House aims to help early-stage Black entrepreneurs unlock their full potential and allow their creative enterprises to thrive.

In June 2024, the fourth cohort of Black Business Residency entrepreneurs will come together for a special evening of networking and presentations, sharing insights on the journey of a start-up business and celebrating their tremendous accomplishments.

Current and previous alumni of the Black Business Residency include entrepreneurs pursuing innovation and pushing boundaries in industries across the creative sector, from performing arts, fashion and food to publishing, technology and social media.

Somerset House and DOES bring together their different skills and networks to provide participants with a series of expert-led workshops and mentoring from industry specialists across the 12-month programme.

Members are given free access to Somerset House's shared workspace The Exchange and are integrated into Somerset House's vibrant resident community programme. The fifth cohort, consisting of 25 start-up businesses, arrive in January 2024.

For the first time, Makerversity, the pioneering community of maker businesses based at Somerset House and Upgrade Yourself are partnering to offer two free one-week creative residencies for young people aged 18-30 in animation and fashion. During the animation residency, Makerversity residents Drew Richards, Mica Warren, Tareq Al-Zamel and David Reason provide hands-on practical sessions exploring character building, start to end stop motion animation process and virtual world building. Meanwhile during the fashion residency, CQ Studio, Anthony Princi, Nimesh Gadhia and Shanti Bell deep dive into industry materials and manufacturing, pattern cutting, the importance of sustainability for future facing brands and portfolio building.

Supported by Kusuma Trust.

Upgrade Yourself Creative Industry Placements

Head to the Somerset House website for more information

The start of the year sees the end of the 2023 Upgrade Yourself: Creative Industry Placements cohort, with the next iteration of the 12-month programme starting in May 2024.

Designed in response to current challenges faced by underrepresented young people when entering creative industries, the Upgrade Yourself: Creative Industry Placements Programme 2024 will nurture and grow emerging talent whilst developing confidence in the workplace and giving insight into how a creative business is run, from day-to-day management through to programming and operations.

Participants will have hands-on experience of working within diverse arts organisations and have opportunities to connect with trailblazing creatives within Somerset House and our resident community.

In addition to being an employee within a creative department, around 10% of time on the programme will be dedicated to in-depth wraparound training, networking events, off-site visits, workshops and mentoring to support personal and professional development.

Collect

1 – 3 March 2024 (previews 28 – 29 February)

Tickets on sale 15 January

www.craftscouncil.org.uk/collect-art-fair

Collect, the leading authority on collectable contemporary craft and design, presented by the UK's Crafts Council, returns to Somerset House in March. Launched in 2004 as the first international fair dedicated to contemporary craft and design, the 20th edition will host 40 specialist galleries from across the globe, representing over 400 artist makers. Alongside the international galleries, Collect Open, the fair's platform for experimental proposals and installations by individual artists and collectives, will present 14 exciting new projects by artists hailing from Canada, Portugal, and from all over the UK including Northern Ireland.

Disciplines and materials on display include ceramics, glass, lacquer, furniture, art jewellery, metalwork, textile and fibre, wood and paper, and pieces embracing more unusual materials such as resin, mica, corn-starch and plastics, as well as reused, repurposed, and recycled materials.

At a time when contemporary craft has never been more sought-after with an active buying market, Collect continues to offer an unparalleled opportunity to acquire new, museum-quality work from living artists internationally – all made within the last five years, and many commissioned especially for the fair.

London Original Print Fair

21 – 24 March 2024

Tickets on sale 22 January

London Original Print Fair will return to Somerset House for its highly anticipated 39th edition. Founded in 1985, London Original Print Fair is London's longest running art fair. Celebrating original printmaking in all of its forms, this year's edition brings together around forty exhibitors, including top international dealers, publishers and print studios. The fair will feature works by world-renowned artists such as Hockney, Auerbach, Rego, Beatriz Milhazes, and modernist masters like Picasso and Matisse.

Visitors will have an unparalleled opportunity to explore, learn about and collect original prints, with five centuries of printmaking on display, from renowned old and modern masters, to beloved contemporary artists, to the latest work by a new generation, hot off the press. Whether you are looking for affordable artworks, a special piece for your home or to build your collection, with significant works by leading artists, London Original Print Fair has something for everyone. Highlights will include access to artists at the fair, exclusive editions and new launches, as well as inspirational talks and creative activities, such as live printmaking demonstrations.

19 April – 6 May 2024

Tickets available in 2024

The internationally acclaimed Sony World Photography Awards return to Somerset House this April, showcasing some of the world's best photography from the past year. Marking its 17th edition, this major exhibition reveals the diverse landscape of photography today: from poignant portraits, to close encounters with wildlife, to fine art by leading talents from around the globe. For the first time this year, the exhibition is overseen by esteemed curator Monica Allende, with works selected from the winning and shortlisted entries to the Sony World Photography Awards 2024. Also on display is a special showcase by Edgar Martins, winner of the Photographer of the Year 2023. A highlight of the exhibition is a presentation by the recipient of the Outstanding Contribution to Photography 2024, celebrated photographer Sebastião Salgado, featuring seminal works from the last five decades of a remarkable career, including images from the series Gold (1986), Workers (1993), Exodus (2000), Genesis (2011) and Amazônia (2019).

Photo London

ABOUT SOMERSET HOUSE

Step Inside, Think Outside

As the home of cultural innovators, Somerset House is a site of origination, with a cultural programme offering alternative perspectives on the biggest issues of our time. We are a place of joy and discovery, where everyone is invited to Step Inside and Think Outside.

From our historic site in the heart of London, we work globally across art, creativity, business, and non-profit, nurturing new talent, methods and technologies. Our resident community of creative enterprises, arts organisations, artists and makers, makes us a centre of ideas, with most of our programme home-grown.

We sit at the meeting point of artistic and social innovation, bringing worlds and minds together to create surprising and often magical results. Our spirit of constant curiosity and counter perspective is integral to our history and key to our future.
